imports under OGL and to 150 per cent on imports under specific licences. Imports of government departments, some bulk commodities required for mass consumption, certain export related imports and life saving drugs were exempt from the above restrictions.

(c) Yes, Sir. They are likely to increase the cost of production of goods in some sectors but the overall effect is expected to reduce inflationary pressures, and expectations which would in turn have an impact on the price level. Further, measures taken to conserve foreign exchange are likely to contribute to industrial growth by hastening import-substitution and promoting exports.

Adverse effect of credit curbs on Textile Industry

1212. SHRI VITHALBHAI M. PATEL: Will the Minister of TEXTILES be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that the Reserve Bank of India's credit curbs have adversely affected the textile industry;

(b) whether it is also a fact that because of credit curbs textile products would be costlier; and

(c) whether Government are considering the request of textile industry for exemption from credit curbs?

THE MINISTER OF STATE (INDEPENDENT CHARGE) OF THE MINISTRY OF TEXTILES (SHRI ASHOK GEHLOT): (a) to (c) The problems relating to credit facilities for textile sector are taken up with the Reserve Bank of India from time to time. As the interest cost is only one component of the total cost, the credit restraint measure by itself, would not have any significant impact on the overall cost of production of textile products. It is the view of the Government that the credit curbs will not have any adverse impact on the textile industry.
